THE POST-MORTEM.

Coroner Taylor explained the result of the post-mortem, which was held yesterday morning. The ball entered the pit of the stomach, and, as far as the course could be determined, it tended somewhat downward and backward. It was cut out some little distance below the back, having passed through the left hip-bone. The bullet made a great many cuts through the intestines, making about ten holes in them. He added that the operation performed upon Fraysler by Drs. C. V. Carrington and Stuart McGuire was beautiful, and manifested great labor and skill. The bullet had done too much damage to be repaired by the skill and ingenuity of the surgeon, and Fraysler died at 8 o'clock yesterday morning.

After a few minutes of private consultation, the jury returned a verdict, cognizing the invaluable services of Sergeant-at-Arms Wilkinson and Messrs. Johnson and Reizenstein.

EMPLOYMENT OF NEGROES. Mr. Doherty brought to the attention of the committee the fact that negroes were under the contract system doing giving work to Republicans, the very men the Democrats were fighting. He thought the City Committee should take some action to secure the abolition of the contract system, under which this wrong was perpetrated. Mr. Allen endorsed Mr. Doherty's position.

Mr. Jarvis said he would like to know whether the City Committee was a political factor. He did not see a single councilman at the poils on last Tuesday. He thought the committee ought to make themselves felt with the Council in the matter of giving Democrats work in preference to Republicans.

The British Government had given strong and tangible proof of its friendship for Japan by concluding the recent treaty with her, Lord Rosebery said. It had also shown its benevolent neutrality by attempting to promote peace between the two powers. The government had gone hand and hand with Russia. Great Britain's relations to Russia were most cordial, the difficulty as to spheres of influence in Asia having been terminated. If all the European countries concerned could only proceed cordially and without suspicion in Asiatic affairs a great step would be taken to secure the peace of the world.

But recently the civilized world had bewalled the assassination of the president of a country with which England ought to stand shoulder to shoulder in generous commercial rivairy. Now she had to regret the death of a great emperor—the master of peace. The young head on which had fallen the terrible responsibility of the Russian crown might prove unequal to the task.

After paying high compliments to the wisdom and moderation of Alexander III. Lord Rosebery spoke of his services in preserving the peace of Europe. Few persons realized, he said, the difficulty of keeping a good understanding among the nations.

Both parties were young, neither having arrived at man's estate, and the affair is a most lamentable one. Mills is the son of William I. Mills, a prosperous and highly-respected merchant at Centreville, and the deceased young man was the son of Joseph Leadbetter, Esq., also a merchant at the same place, and favorably known in this county and in Richmond. Mills was bafled at the preliminary trial before the justice, when it was not thought that young Leadbetter was seriously wounded. THE SHOOTING.

On the 30th of October there was a serious shooting affair in Goochland county, near Johnson Springs Post-Office, in which the principals were John Mills, who shot Ashby Leadbetter while returning from Manna Kin on a young colt. Leadbetter, not being able to hold the animal, went to his home and then returned to the scene of the trouble. He asked John Mills, who was present, responded that it served him right, and that if he did not leave at once he (Ben Mills) would shoot him.

Leadbetter then picked up a stick with which to defend himself.

Ben Mills, who was a relative of John Mills, then shot Leadbetter twice with a pistol-one ball striking him in the leg, then ranging upwards into the abdomen, the other ball passing through his clothing. After the shooting both John Mills and Hen Mills were arrested by the constable of the county and gave ball in the sum of $100 each.

BYNUM'S ALLEGED BRIBES.
INDIANAPOLIS, IND., November 9.—
Very little importance is attached to the statement by Congressman Bynum to the effect that he could have been elected had he been willing to accept bribes for offices, which would be filled on his recommendation. Outside of the post-offices in this city and Angrson there were no valuable Federal places at his disposal, for Senators Voorhees and Turple had as much to do with the larger Federal places as had Bynum, the marshalship, collectorship, pension agency, and other good places being filled, not by the congressmen, but upon the recommendation of the senators. Mr. Bynum's statement that he was offered $5,000 if he would recommend a certain man for position is not credited by Democrats. He is very sore over his defeat, and is attributing it to disappointed place-hunters, when, in fact, that class had less to do with than any other.

Two of Them Loot a Town, Killing One Man and Wounding Another.

COFFEYVILLE, KAN., November 9.—
Two of the Cook gang plundered the town of Lenapah, I. T., and left a bloody trail behind them this afternoon. They entered the town in their character of bold handits, without any attempt at concealment, and terrorized the clitzens until they carried out their plans of robbery. Mr. Melton, a brave young man, who attempted to stop them with his gun when they were riding away, was shot and instantly killed. Another man, whose name cannot be learned to-night, is reported to have been seriously wounded. behind them this afternoon. They entered the town in their character of bold bandits, without any attempt at concealment, and terrorized the citizens until they carried out their plans of robbery. Mr. Melton, a brave young man, who attempted to stop them with his gun when they were riding away, was shot and instantly killed. Another man, whose name cannot be learned to-night, is reported to have been seriously wounded. Both of the victims were with a small force of citizens, who hastily armed themselves and attempted to prevent the escape of the bandits.

The robbers were mounted on fast horses, and were heavily armed. Some of the citizens claim to have recognized them as Cherokee Bill and Jim French, well-known lieutenants of Bill Cook, the leader of the gang.

The robbers held up the proprietors of two stores and looted both places. They also robbed the post-office. John Shufelt, the proprietor of one store, was relieved of 8100 in money and a gold watch. These articles were taken from his person. Mr. Shufelt proclaimed his loss to the town before the robbers had finished their work, and the band of citizens was almost between them and their horses when the robbers went to mount. An effort was made to stop them, but they were on horseback, with drawn pistols, and were flying before their would-be captors could make a concentrated move. Melton was more rash than the others, and met death in consequence.

BUST OF PRESIDENT DAVIS

Dear Madam,—I desire to present to you for the Museum of Confederate Relics, which will be catablished in the White House of the Confederacy, a plaster bust of our late distinguished President, Hon, Jefferson Davis, and also a wreath of evergrees leaves with the Stars and Bars—emblem of our Confederate flag. This bust and wreath were on or near the casket which contained all that was mortal of our departed chieftain when his body lay in state in our historic old State Capitol building preceding the reinterment of the honored dead. I hope it may be your pleasure to accept the same, to be placed within the edifice where he so often held sweet communion with his household, and where he anxiously awaited tidings of great joy whenever victory followed the patriotic struggles of our heroes, who weighed the useless gains of earthly business pursuits as naught compared with the immortality which is theirs, and also where his tender solicitude for our armies was often greatly shocked by reverses which depleted our ranks that stood up before overpowering numbers in defence of our homes and firesides. These sacred emblems will be sent to such place and at such time as you may decide upon. I am, with high regard.

J. BELL BIGGER.

The ladies in charge of the museum are anxious to secure also plaster busts of President Davis's Cabinet officers.
